

Please do not implement any changes on the federal level that would reduce the effectiveness of Indiana's current "no call telemarketing law". Since signing up on Stephen Carter's no call list my evenings are no longer interrupted by pesky phone calls. I used to get one or two calls a night whereas now I get none. I feel I'm mature and intelligent enough to know when, where, and how to purchase windows, vacations, and the multitude of other things offered over the phone by these parasite organizations without the assistance of people who have no idea or regard for my lifestyle. Once again, please leave the effectiveness of the Indiana no call law intact. Thank you.
